

Brita d'Agostino is an Assistant Professor of Graphic Design at New Mexico State University. Prior to her teaching appointment at NMSU, she served as an Assistant Professor of Graphic Design at Daemen College in Amherst, New York, and worked in the publishing industry for the award-winning publication Wired Magazine. She has exhibited her artwork in venues that include Hallwalls Contemporary Arts Center and the Aperture Foundation. She has also presented her critical writing in the field of art and design at the College Art Association (CAA) annual conference in 2016, the International Association of Word and Image Studies conference in 2017, and the ATINER International Conference on Communication and Mass Media in 2018 .